

Note: Boundary shown on plan does not reflect the latest proposed boundary for the Centreville Historic District.

Legend

-  Village Core Zone
-  Village Edge Zone
-  Gateway Zone
-  Historic District Entrance Points

Centreville Historic Overlay District
Design Guideline Zones

Figure 6-1

Not to scale.

Figure 6-2. Braddock Road, 1862. (Source: Library of Congress.)

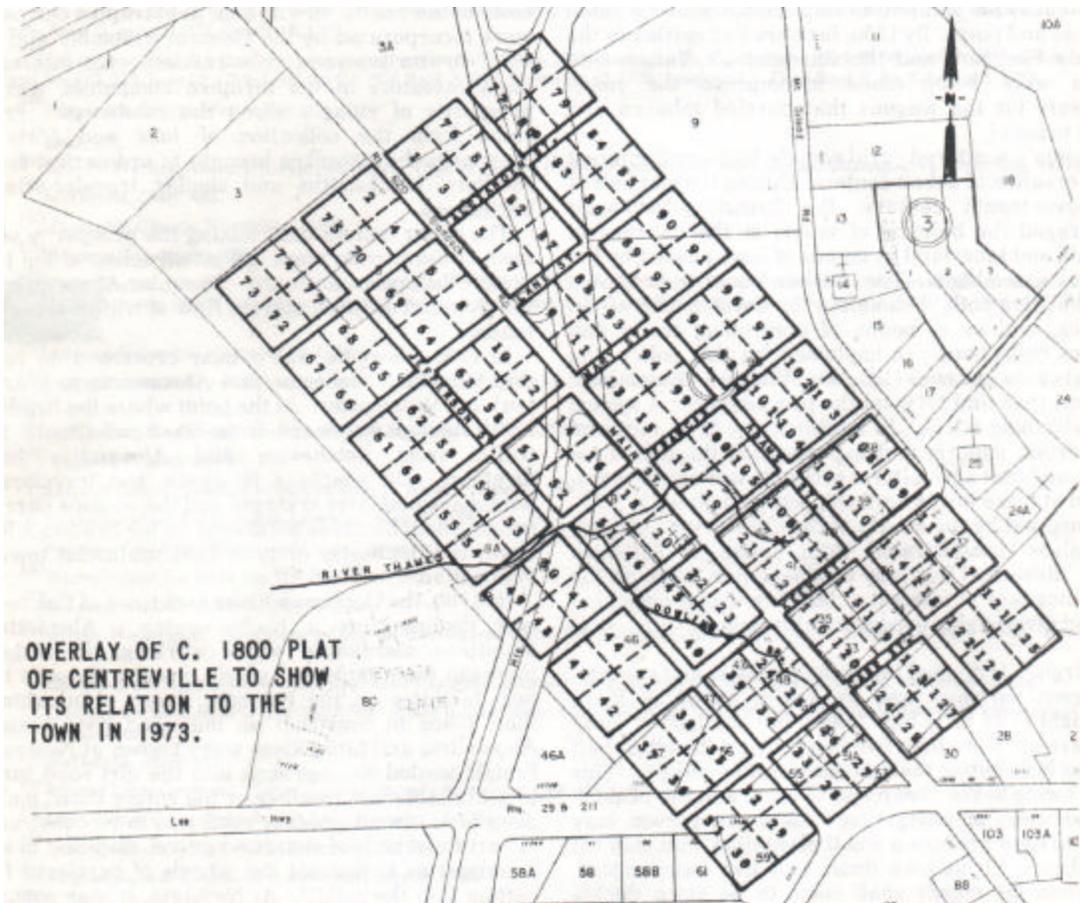

Figure 6-3. Original Centreville grid figure overlaid on 1973 parcel map. (Source: Smith, Centreville, Virginia, Its History and Architecture.)

Figure 6-4. Centreville streetscape, ca. 1904. (Source: National Archives.)

Figure 6-5. Havener House, 1907. (Source: M.D. Hall, Industrial and Historical Sketches of Fairfax County.)

Figure 6-6. High density residential development on Mount Gilead Road. (Source: John Milner Associates, Inc.)

Figure 6-7. Outlet of culverted portion of Thames Creek. (Source: John Milner Associates, Inc.)

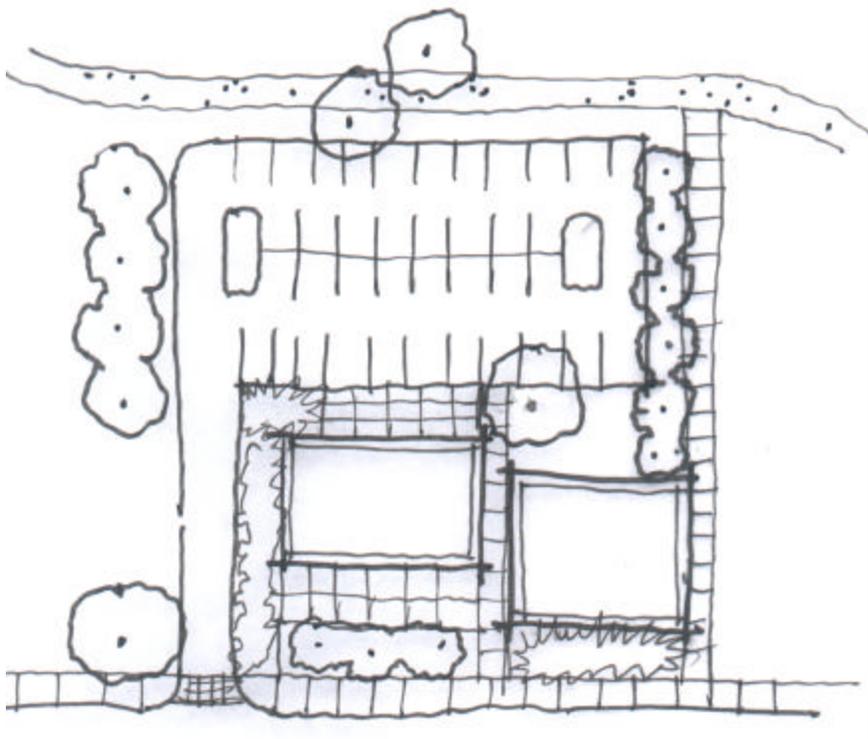

Figure 6-8. Conceptual sketch of pedestrian pathways through a property.

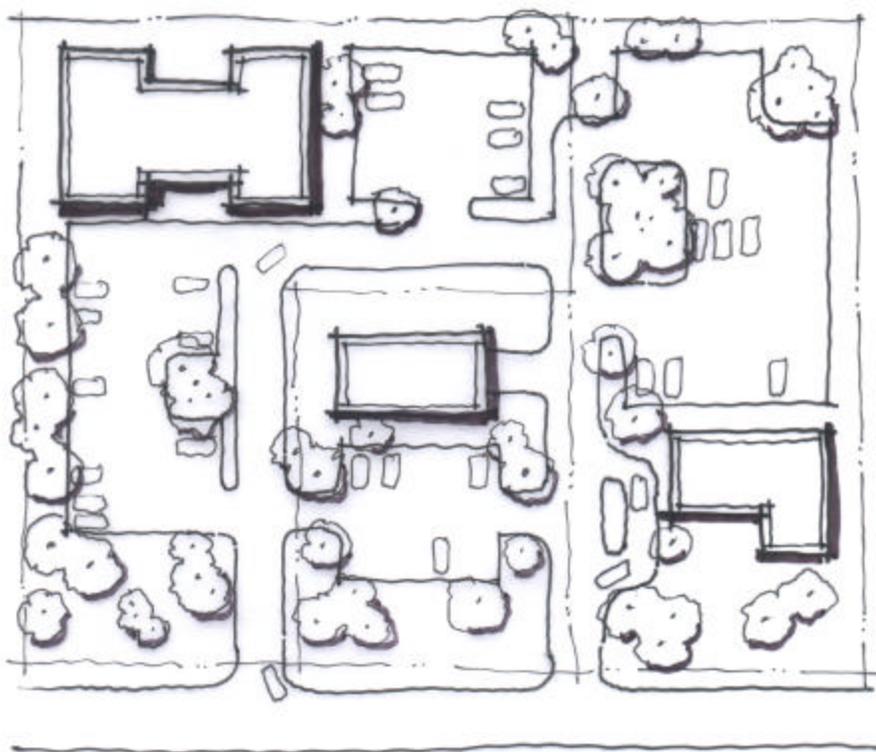

Figure 6-9. Conceptual sketch of small, well-defined, parking lots screened and shaded by trees.

Figure 6-10. Low and visually open picket fence. (Source: John Milner Associates, Inc.)

Figure 6-11. Contemporary light fixture with historic reference. (Source: Sternberg Lighting.)

Figure 6-12. Simple, contemporary signage. (Source: John Milner Associates, Inc.)

Figure 6-13. Simple, contemporary site furnishing. (Source: Landscape Forms.)

Figure 6-14. Pedestrian-oriented urban character. (Source: John Milner Associates, Inc.)

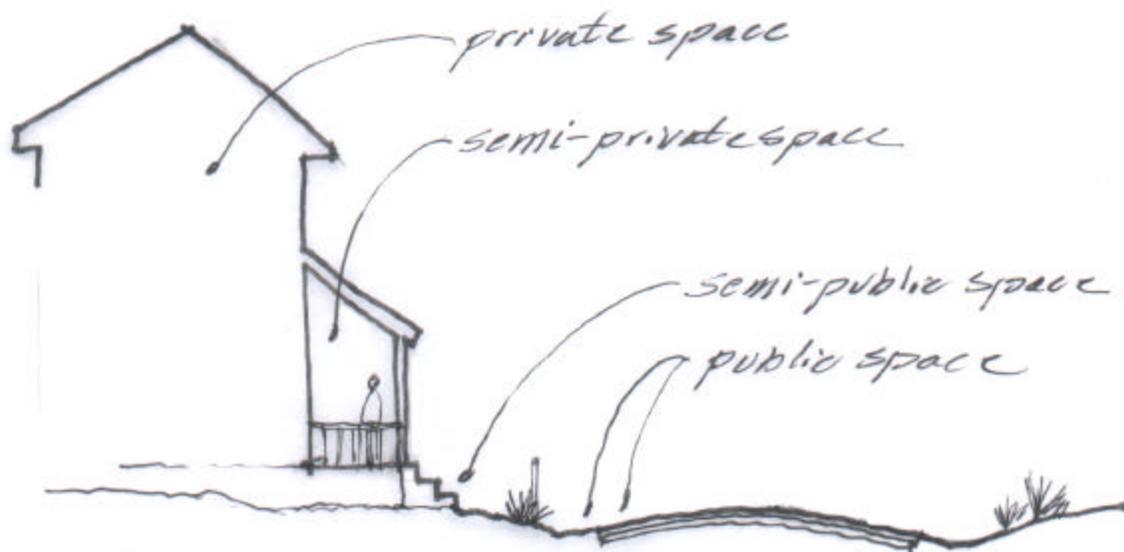

Figure 6-15. Diagram of Centreville's layers of public and private space.

Figure 6-16. Large building designed with complex massing for human scale. (Source: John Milner Associates, Inc.)

Figure 6-17. Entrance and parking on the side of a building along Braddock Road. (Source: John Milner Associates, Inc.)

Figure 6-18. View toward sound wall from Braddock Road. (Source: John Milner Associates, Inc.)

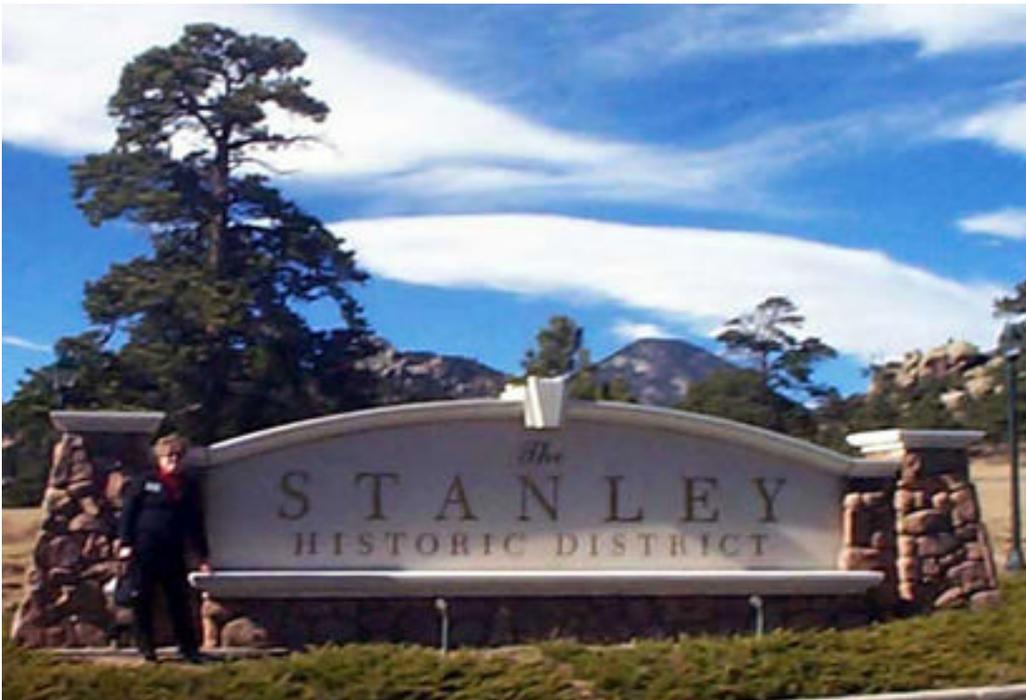

Figure 6-19. Stone piers used at entrance to Stanley Historic District. (Source: http://www.aese.org/a_photo_album/imagesmtg/h_07_Stanley_hs_sign_ms.jpg)